A MESSAGE FROM THE EDITOR

First of all, I'd like to sincerely thank you for your interest in working with me. Please be aware that a traditional résumé like this one isn't really a good basis to judge a designer/developer by. For this reason, I have made a complete website to show off what I can do (www.keats.hu): it contains a portfolio with screenshots of every project I've done so far (/portfolio.php), a page about the process I've developed over the years (/process.php), another one about my professional experience (/experience.php), and most important of all, a 5-minute primer with ideas about the things someone like me would be able to do for your organization (/primer.php).

WHAT I'M REALLY GOOD AT

- Asking the right questions, understanding what a client actually needs and coming up with the right solutions on the spot
- Interface design for complex applications, Temple Grandin style emphatic planning
- Systems design and systemic thinking in general
- Seeing the internet for what it is, an amazing marketing tool yet to be fully explored and understood
- Writing high performance, hand-coded Javascript and PHP
- I'm really good with colour, a competent designer with lots of different gigs under my belt
- I'm a very quick study, with an insatiable hunger for more insight into all the things that make our world turn

PROFESSIONAL KNOWLEDGE

- Worked on a wide range of different Content Management Systems & Portal Engines in a variety of roles (incl. Project Manager, Systems Designer, Designer and Developer).
- Done around 50 websites and a dozen web apps for a colorful assortment of clients - sometimes alone from conceptualization to delivery, sometimes leading small teams of 2-3 people.
- Done all kinds of graphic design over the years including identities and logos, newspaper ads, brochures, presentations, banners, t-shirts, coffee mugs and a wine label.
- I was heavily involved in marketing and public relations at every company I've worked for, writing copy, contributing to strategic plans, organizing events and developing promotional materials
